Dear [REDACTED]

I will work on something for Jeffery. I am currently (this week) updating several projects that I would like for him to see. Once they are in "good shape", I will get them off to you, for him. Once he has had the chance to review them, he can decide if he has enough interest to schedule a face to face meeting. I hope, and believe, he just might.

Thank you for taking the time to help me out with this.

Kind regards, David

Hello David...you missed all the fun snow yesterday! It started in the morning and did not stop until late last night! I couldn't believe it...

Jeffrey says to send him something to read if you would like...

Thanks, [REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

I am back in "sunny California", after a side trip to "sunny Arizona". Now that I am rested and warm, I am planning another trip to NYC, during the month of March.

I am wondering if Jeffery is himself planning a trip to NYC this month? If he does plan to be in NYC this month, I would arrange my travels to fit with his.

It might be too early in the season to get him out of Florida, but I thought I would ask the question.

Thanks, and Kind regards, David

Dear [REDACTED]

I can't imagine Jeffery will be in NYC next week, but since I will be, I thought I would just let you know. Actually, I am here now (freezing), and I will be here until Thursday, February 19th. Just in case.

Kind regards, David

You are correct!

I am ready for Spring myself!

Feel free to keep us posted of your travels...

Thank you, [REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED]

Thanks for the prompt response. I guess if one has a place in Florida, one is not anxious to be in NYC in the month of February. ☺

I will keep you posted on my future travel plans, and hopefully, one of these days, the stars will line up.

Kind regards, David

Hello David and thank you for your email. I will let Jeffrey know, but I don't believe he will be in NY next week. Hope to be back to you soon...

Dear

I am emailing you at the suggestion of James Meiskin. James has been trying to arrange a meeting between me and Jeffery for several months, but our respective travel schedules have gotten in the way. I am emailing today to let you know that I will be in NYC for the week of February 8th. If Jeffery is also in town next week, and has some time in his schedule, I would love to have the chance to meet him, and discuss with him what I am doing in biotechnology. I think he could find it interesting on several levels.

Thanks for your help.

Kind Regards, David
