Ok, I'll stay with United for the lower costs, and will leave the city at 3pm to catch the 5:04pm flight.

HI Amy...Jeffrey says it is your choice on the flight change! Whichever suits you best...I do know Jeffrey has some very important meetings at his home planned on Sat. from 2-5pm...I am not sure if after your meeting with Jeffrey you need time to run around and get other things accomplished for him or if you can merely leave after meeting type thing...

My original flights were with United. The last flight that they offer is at 5:04pm (I would need to leave the city at 3:00pm), it's a $200 change fee (no additional cost for the ticket).

If I change airlines, I can leave at 7:40pm, on American. Cost is $200 change fee for United (I can reuse the ticket on another trip) and $420 for the ticket from American. I think it's safer to go with this option to allow the most flexibility for Saturday.

Let me know your thoughts.

not sure...he has other meetings this day as well...he specified "flight Sat. night" so I think if you can take like a 7/8pm flight that would be good...
