George,

Any chance this Thursday works for you. I am hoping to take this day off if it works for you. I potentially could also take Friday but Thursday is the most likely. Lesley is also home on Thursday so another reason why this may work the best.

Hi George,

Costco finally let us know they will bring a new Tv for the bedroom on Friday July 18th. Lesley can work from home any day next week so if you have a day that works next week that could work. This Sunday also works I am just not sure if you work on Sunday. Maybe you can let us know your availability and then I can let you know what day works best. That way we can both get a bit of training on the remote ect. Also I can help you load the items from my old house that you may want.

A few other items that I think we need to do also and some items have fallen off the list since I have figured them out myself. I will highlight below the items that I think we still need to do.

Also, Samsung came yesterday to repair the TV in the family room. They need to replace our screen with a new screen. This will take them a week or two to get us the new TV. I had to take the sticky inferred sensor off but I think once they do all this work we can focus on this again.

Gym tv is not hooked up so that I can get Amazon Prime or Netflix. I am not sure what needs to be done to do this.

I want to make sure the bedroom TV is also set up for Amazon prime and Netflix ect.

Bass in the family room I do not think is on but need to check to make sure.

The little sticky remote sensor keeps falling off the surround sound amp.

George,

Thanks for the update.

No new TV yet. I am not sure when it will be there, we will call them and find out when it will be there

I also want to get a new TV for the family room. There is clearly something wrong with it one we have the dark line through the middle of it. We have had the TV since February so we need to speak with Samsung on it and cannot just deal with Costco unfortunately

Other items I think we need to complete:

Sonos works great but can we add the Family room onto the Kitchen so it will play in all the rooms.

Password for the Wi-Fi, I did not want to add it because you said that we would have to change something on the Sonos. It does make me nervous that we do not have a password currently (we took care of this)

Finish the speakers in the basement. I just think we need to select where we want them down there for best sound. (we took care of this)

The remote in the family room. I think the [REDACTED] and I need a quick tutorial on this. I am sure it is not complicated but I felt like I was hitting so many buttons that I do not know what I was doing Finish the Xbox set up. I think you could not get it to work because there was an eye / sensor that was in Lesley office that also needs to be set up. I am not sure the gets way to accomplish this since our TV is so flush to the wall but maybe you have an idea.

The computer is hooked up with all of our music. Maybe we you can show me how to sync this with the Sonos. I know you said something about an S drive or something.

Cell phone booster, we are going to buy one so we can get set up. (we took care of this)

The phone line does not work. we are having Optimum come back to the house to check on this. (we took care of this)

I feel like I am missing something but I cannot think of it now.

Also I had a friend as for a recommendation on someone so I am going to give her your contact information. Her name is Tammy Besaw, she used to have a big house with Creston or some other high end thing but they sold the house with the system in it. I think she wants something more simple now.

One tv is 55 inch and the other is 60 in, the 55 actually fit in my trunk.

Great on the old stuff

George,

We have two TV's at our current home 120 oak street.

We also have the apple airport extreme and an XBOX to hook up.

Can you come by and pick them up on Wednesday on your way to 159 Oenoke.

Also we have an old Marantz amplifier, looks nice but it is at least 15 years old. It has never been used still in the box. You can have it if you want. Also a Bose bass speaker, not sure if they are worth anything but you are welcome to have them free if not I am going to throw them away.

George,

optimum is coming on July 2 between 2 and 5 pm. Do you think this day would work for you to do all the hook up then you will be there when them come so the do not mess things up.
