We will have the butterflies to look forward to!!

I will wear the grey dress this Thursday as Jeffrey will be back in town ;)

LOVE the skillet! Love the rubber handle...makes so much sense because they can get sooo hot. I think the 2 I have are plenty for now...I have used them both now!

Yes, very busy with sports and camps...I do think [REDACTED] is having a nice summer...he loved his TX trip so much and would love to go again this summer I'm sure!
Football "sunday night lights" has already started up!

I was able to organize some yesterday and it felt great! Little bits each day and i will get there...come next year at this time maybe it will be done :)

How's the new home coming? I know you are too busy to write. Don't worry; we understand. If you like the pans, and want more, I will get them and send them to you. There is one larger pan, but I don't use it... so I didn't feel that you would that much. I have more than one of the sizes I sent you, but I wanted to see if you liked them, before I sent more to you. That kind of pan only lasts a year or so regardless of how you treat them. It is just life. Good that they aren't too expensive.

> Glad the black dress turned out well. The gray is an expensive dress. It looks expensive... and it is made as an expensive dress would be. I hope that it works too. Maybe a fancy necklace. They seem to be in style now. Scarves too... Wish you could come back down... we love you all and miss you... sorry you live so far away... I know you have lives up there and cannot leave easily... I remember sports. (2 boys) Take care. love,
