VIRGIN ISLANDS WEATHER SUMMARY

An upper level low will be over the area, mainly over Puerto Rico, at least through the weekend. This weather feature will combine with high levels of moisture in the area to cause periods of showers and some thundershowers on both Friday and Saturday.

Across the regional waters, seas to five feet and winds to 20 knots (22 miles per hour) are expected through Friday. Showers can be expected through Friday. Mariners can also expect higher winds and seas near showers and thundershowers.
