

To: Robert [REDACTED]
From: [REDACTED]
Sent: Wed 4/2/2014 1:45:37 PM
Subject: Re: Tony

pisses me off.

On Apr 2, 2014, at 9:44 AM, "Robert" [REDACTED] wrote:

> I can't imagine throwing them away. I bet if they just let them lying > around someone could have thrown them away

> -----Original Message-----

> From: [REDACTED] [mailto:[REDACTED]]
> Sent: Wednesday, April 02, 2014 7:33 AM
> To: Robert
> Subject: Re: Tony

> I saw the boxes. In fact, I had the boxes in my living room for the dining > room sconces and saw the shades with my own eyes I will check stock on > them today cause they took awhile to get. The ones for hallway are probably > in stock but will check those too

> Sent from my iPhone

> On Apr 2, 2014, at 7:09 AM, "Robert" [REDACTED] wrote:

>> Tony is coming back at the end of the week. We still owe him a lot of >> money. 22,000 on the original contract. I think he will find the >> shades or they will be deducted. I would take the blame but I never >> saw them. Maybe they didn't come with them but I doubt it.

>> -----Original Message-----

>> From: [REDACTED] [mailto:[REDACTED]]
>> Sent: Tuesday, April 01, 2014 7:21 PM
>> To: Bob Caffrey
>> Subject: Tony

>> Did tony ever respond to you re the email in lighting stuff? Just >> wondering when he will come back. I'm excited to see the large >> chandeliers. What is going to happen with the sconces that are >> missing? Do I order and we take the money off what we owe him? The > dining room sconces were not cheap. The >> ones upstairs were $100 each. Where did they go? Crazy Why didn't they >> just install the whole thing and cover them up or something.

>> Sent from my iPhone

>>
>