Jeffrey,

I get very high marks from my references for the way I handle staff and crea=e efficient and dedicated teams. That's also why they brought me back to Ab= Dhabi.

Yet, on the island, every manager fails.

Nobody wants to change the Status Quo there. And certain staff members have t=rned it into an art form to make sure nobody succeeds.

You need to do a purge and get rid of those bad apples if you want to have a=smooth running operation. In my opinion they have been allowed to get away w=th bad behavior for much too long.

Why don't we take one department at a time, find the suitable replacements a=d get the island turned around. It can't be very satisfying for you to list=n to all this petty bickering all the time.

I can find that staff. And I can do the training the new staff needs. 6 mont=s from now it can be a much better scenario with reliable and pleasant staf= in place. Running two islands with the same crew will just increase the he=dache.

I can do this. It is what I do for a living and I have no doubt that if we w=rk together on a master plan, the end result will be a much better solution=than you'd ever had on LSJ.

Best

John
