Assume we're not going to comment on how many calls we receive? I see her point, but not sure if that's a road we want to go down...

I'm not asking what the communications are, as you know, I'm just asking for a statement about whether you received a response and whether that response was good. That is not asking you the nature of the calls or the communications.

I hope we can have a good working relationship, and as I said, I'm willing to work within the confines of your restrictions.

I too am getting calls from victims, and some of them are reluctant to go to your office because they've seen how the women in Florida were treated.

It might be good to continue to use the media to assure them (and other potential witnesses) that you are truly on a different path than those who worked the previous case.

I would appreciate it if you would share this email with Mr. Berman, and/or the lead prosecutors in the case.

Thanks,
JKB

Julie,

Thank you for your inquiry. I cannot comment on how many victims have come forward or the nature of those calls; communications between victims and this Office are strictly confidential.
