I don't want to be rude, but I also would prefer not to send the memo. Thoughts?

Thanks, [REDACTED]. Completely understand that it's hard to condense the investigation into a paragraph. Could you please send us the memo? We're happy to pull out what will be relevant for him. Thanks. (Sorry, adding [REDACTED], who I forgot to add on before.)

Hi [REDACTED],

We actually just met with [REDACTED] and the brass today about an 86 page memo we submitted canvassing the full scope of the investigation and the other topics you mentioned, so I think that will cover everything, and no problem from us if you want to note in your memo that you understand we've recently briefed him on this. I would otherwise just send you a blurb, but as I'm sure you can understand this case is sort of impossible to briefly summarize in a blurb.

Hope that's okay—

Hey guys,

Could you please send us a blurb on Epstein that includes: number of victims interviewed, charges, any foreign victims, resolution, status of the investigation now? [REDACTED] has asked us for a memo and we'd like to include this case to highlight your great work.

Thanks,

[REDACTED]
