

From: "[REDACTED] (USANYS)" <[REDACTED]>
To: "[REDACTED] (USANYS)" <[REDACTED]>
Subject: RE:
Date: Mon, 13 Apr 2020 13:27:17 +0000

I agree. I think rather than it be a free flow, we call on people to give specific updates on things pushing forward (Epstein team, for example; maybe [REDACTED]; maybe 1-2 others?).

Also, do we have things we should be nudging on? [REDACTED] for example? It's been a month now since [REDACTED] and I talked about drafting a complaint, and I've heard nothing since.

From: [REDACTED] (USANYS) <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Monday, April 13, 2020 9:17 AM
To: [REDACTED] (USANYS) <[REDACTED]>
Subject: RE:

Probably a good idea – let's do it for next week. Would want to choreograph it carefully so that it doesn't run on and on, which would frustrate people esp with childcare issues.

From: [REDACTED] (USANYS) <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Monday, April 13, 2020 9:07 AM
To: [REDACTED] (USANYS) <[REDACTED]>
Subject: RE:

Yep, sounds good. Do we also want to try to organize a unit meeting at some point? Would it be helpful for folks to hear what others have been up to? I don't otherwise think we have a real need for one, it would just replace the ordinary banter about cases that typically just happens in the office...

From: [REDACTED] (USANYS) <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Monday, April 13, 2020 9:04 AM
To: [REDACTED] (USANYS) <[REDACTED]>
Subject:

I'm going to send a unit email just asking what people have upcoming this week, ok?