

From:
To:
Cc:

Subject: Re: general Epstein update

Date: Mon, 16 Mar 2020 18:21:30 +0000

---

I'm free whenever works for everyone. Thanks.

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 16, 2020, at 1:58 PM, [REDACTED] wrote:

I'm available anytime (my trial has been adjourned indefinitely).

---

From: [REDACTED]

Sent: Monday, March 16, 2020 1:49 PM

To: [REDACTED]

Subject: RE: general Epstein update

Team,

I got in touch with [REDACTED] attorney earlier today, and understandably they would like to postpone the meeting previously scheduled for tomorrow, which is also consistent with our office's recent direction to limit meetings to those that are mission critical. We'll circle back with them once things get back to normal (or normal-ish), which I guess may be some period of weeks or months.

More generally, is there a time later this afternoon or tomorrow that would be convenient for a quick conference call to talk about status of the case in general? In some ways the current circumstances are very frustrating and will delay certain steps (meeting with [REDACTED], meeting with [REDACTED] in-person approaches, etc) but it will also provide time to do additional research and memos, 302s, reviewing search warrant results, etc. So whenever is good for everybody, would be great to chat for just like 10 minutes or so and figure out how to best make use of the time.

Meanwhile, I hope everybody is healthy and safe, and talk soon.

[REDACTED]
Assistant U.S. Attorney
Southern District of New York
[REDACTED]

EFTA00087847