I spoke to her earlier in the day yesterday and she is really having a hard time with this. I shared the Safe Horizons counselors with her and told her that I could look for someone in Fl. She said she was going to go back to her old therapist. She called me last night when she got the notice and wants to come in.

Can I do anything to facilitate the travel? Like maybe get her a hotel for one night or car service. It is a very unusual situation. I don't think I would be able to do travel.
