[REDACTED] –

OPR is prepared to provide you with the electronic records we have collected in OPR's investigation of the USAO-SDFL handling of the Epstein matter, with the strong caveat that they were acquired for OPR's own administrative investigation and cannot be represented to be complete for criminal discovery purposes.

Attached is a summary of what we have. Please let us know if there's any category of electronic records that you do not wish. And do let me know if you have any questions about it.

We could either have the records put onto an encrypted hard drive shipped to you, or we think we could transfer them to a cache that can be made available to specified folks in your office through JEFS. Either way would take a few days to accomplish. Do you have a preference?

Unfortunately, the hard copy files would have to be reviewed physically. We don't have the capacity at this time to copy or scan them. But they're a small quantity compared with the electronic files.

Best regards,
