Glad to hear it -- and yeah, can't complain on my end -- other than being worried for elderly relatives etc, and generally being horrified at how all this is playing out, on a personal level the girlfriend and I are healthy, and no kids to worry about, so just riding it out in social-distancing land. And as you say, trying to stay motivated! But so far so good. And glad to hear same for you too.

Yep, totally fine — asymptotic and working from home. And extremely bored, like everyone else. Also finding working remotely difficult to do with any sort of efficiency. You?
