Most people will go through life never understanding the pressures associated with the work each of you are doing, and most of our own staff will never know the pressures that come with the title [REDACTED]. There are more than enough people currently talking about the Bureau and giving their opinions about much of what they don't know. We know what we do; and I know each of you are absolutely the best at it. Don't ever let anyone tell you different. Please watch out for each other, check on each other, and support each other, and in times like today support each other like never before. Please ensure you reach out to [REDACTED], let him know he is part of our team, and that doesn't change....period.
