On 08/30/19, Bureau of Prisons (BOP) Lieutenant [REDACTED], date of birth (DOB) [REDACTED], was interviewed at the United States Attorney's Office (USAO) in the Southern District of New York (SDNY) located at 1 Saint Andrews Plaza, New York. Present for the interview were Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Special Agent (SA) [REDACTED], Office of the Inspector General (OIG) SA [REDACTED], Assistant United States Attorney (AUSA) [REDACTED], and AUSA [REDACTED].

[REDACTED] began working for the BOP in 2004 at Fort Dix, New Jersey. [REDACTED] eventually ended his employment with the BOP, and then later returned to the BOP as a Lieutenant. [REDACTED] has since been assigned to various other BOP facilities, including Florence and Englewood. [REDACTED] began working at the Manhattan Correctional Center (MCC) located at 150 Park Row, New York, NY approximately one year ago. [REDACTED] is currently employed as a GS-11. 2:00 PM shift. There is no nighttime SHU Lieutenant scheduled at MCC. [REDACTED] has worked at other BOP facilities where a nighttime Lieutenant is scheduled.

All BOP employees are required to participate in an annual refresher training. The last training was held at 26 Federal Plaza in New York, NY. There is also quarterly training for new corrections officers assigned to the SHU and others who are mandated to attend. Suicide prevention is one of the topics discussed during the training. The training discusses the signs of suicide, and what an employee should do if an inmate attempts or successfully commits suicide. The details of these trainings are found in post orders which are displayed at MCC.

[REDACTED] had not heard about EPSTEIN until he arrived at MCC as an inmate. [REDACTED] was not working at the time of EPSTEIN's attempted suicide, and was told about the incident afterwards. Standard practice at MCC is that if an inmate is placed on suicide watch, a cellmate will be placed with that inmate. The psychology unit gives corrections officers a hot list which lists the names of any inmates who are on suicide watch and require a cellmate.

EPSTEIN was placed on suicide watch, was brought upstairs to the SHU, and discussions began about who EPSTEIN's cellmate would be. [REDACTED] was not present at any of these meetings. Once REYES was selected to be EPSTEIN's cellmate, [REDACTED] spoke with EPSTEIN and REYES about it and neither inmate had an issue with it. [REDACTED] physically placed REYES into EPSTEIN's cell.

[Agent's Note: At this point in the interview, [REDACTED] was shown a printed email from AUSA [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] stated he recalled receiving the email, which was prior to assigning REYES to be EPSTEIN's cellmate.]

On 08/09/19, [REDACTED] was assigned as the Operations Lieutenant on the 8:00 AM-4:00 PM shift, which is actually worked 6:00 AM-2:00 PM. Corrections officers during the morning watch shift knew that EPSTEIN and REYES were to be kept in the same cell.

REYES was removed from EPSTEIN's cell during this shift for a court appearance and was released. A new cellmate was not immediately placed into EPSTEIN's cell. [REDACTED] was aware of EPSTEIN being alone, and was waiting to see what inmate would be assigned as EPSTEIN's new cellmate. [REDACTED] believed the Captain or the psychology unit would make this assignment.

[REDACTED] did not tell any members of the relieving shift or Captain [REDACTED] that REYES had been released from MCC, or that EPSTEIN was currently without a cellmate. [REDACTED] did not work on 08/10/19 and heard about EPSTEIN's death on the news.

[REDACTED] explained that corrections officers travel between the ninth floor and the tenth floor of MCC via a staircase. Corrections officers can take an elevator from the ninth floor to the eleventh floor, but it does not stop at the tenth floor. The tenth floor is not a full floor, and is similar to an attic. There are bathrooms for the use of corrections officers on the ninth and tenth floors. Female corrections officers mostly use the tenth floor bathroom because it is more comfortable and private. Corrections officers pick up the house phone and have the control unit open the doors for them to access the bathroom and to complete their rounds.

[REDACTED] also explained that overtime during the nighttime shift for corrections officers in the SHU is not often sought after. This is because it requires officers to be mobile and to prepare the paperwork for the morning shift.
