[REDACTED],

I really think you misunderstood something, as I have read the claim protocol carefully. You are eligible to submit your claim to be reviewed by the claim administrator.

As I have explained in the past, and presumably Sigrid has as well, you received one of the highest settlements against Jeffrey Epstein in the past. When the administrator reviews your claim, there is no telling how she will value it. She may value it at $50k or maybe at $1M. Because your last settlement was $500k, if she values your claim at $500k or lower, then she will have determined that you were already fully compensated and therefore would not receive any more compensation. If, however, she values your claim at greater than $500k then you will be entitled to the amount above $500k (for example, if she says its worth $750k, then you will get $250k).

I hope this makes sense and helps. Do not get down. Nobody knows anything about how these claims will be valued at all. We can only hope for the best.

Hi Brad,

It's over for me. I was told today that I will not get a settlement from the administrator for what happened to me.

I'm destroyed by this news. I'm devastated and inconsolable.

It's over
