[REDACTED], see the below email from [REDACTED] – he does not have a cable for it. When we transmit hard drives we ordinarily include the connection capability. Could you please let us know what type of cable is needed for it, and I will buy one and have it delivered to [REDACTED].

thanks,

[REDACTED],
It was given to me without the cable. I had one from another drive, so. I used that. Your IT folks should have a cable for it.

See below – we sent the latest hard drive to [REDACTED], but it apparently is missing the cable to plug it into the computer. Could you please drop off the cable today along with the thumb drive you're downloading now, and we can overnight both to him this afternoon? Or let us know if that's not possible for some reason?

thanks,

I did receive the drive but the drive should have come with a cable for me to plug into the computer. Do you know if anyone has this plug as I can't look at the data on the drive without it this cable.

Thank you
