Hi Paul – I still am not back in the office but I did hear back from [REDACTED] about a proposal. I have been hoping that JD#1 might change her mind and agree to settle in light of our further revised letter, so I have not even taken a stab at a response yet. Would it be too much to ask for October 17th? That is 8 weeks from Monday, which is when I hope to be back in the office. You can then propose a reply date (which would include your response to our cross-motion), and we would get 3 weeks thereafter for the reply to your response. I think that would cover all the possible iterations.

Thank you very much and have a wonderful weekend.
