A. [REDACTED] don't you think this would be better to have this done at the FBI, and let one of the agent's babysit. I can't ask pat to do this...you're right this is not one of his duties.

Hi everyone – Defense counsel are coming in to do a forensic exam this week. They say it will take all day Wednesday and probably part of Thursday. Can we get a conference room with a standalone computer that has been “cleaned” and has either no login password or a “guest” login?

I don't relish the idea of having to babysit them the whole time, so I am wondering if we could set up in a quiet corner in the lobby or in some other area where they will be able to have access to the restrooms, but will not be able to wander off un-noticed. (This is probably beyond Patrick's duties, but I am desperate.) What do you think?
