Good evening, everyone. The Justice Department has made an inquiry of [REDACTED] that he has passed along to me, to review our records and gather some information for them to review. This is going to require me to search and retrieve emails and electronic documents (Word Perfect documents) to give to [REDACTED] so that he can send them to Washington. Obviously I will not be altering the documents or emails in any way, but I know that just opening the documents can change the data. Is there a way for me to do this safely?

Thank you.
