Thank you, [REDACTED] Ignore my previous email. Either this turned up later or I just missed it, but there's no need to send again. I would appreciate copies of the pages of the transcript you mentioned where the judge ordered Jeffrey Epstein to stay away from these victims. It would be of comfort to our clients.

I think Amy may have told you that we tried to see [REDACTED] yesterday, but she was in the infirmary. We had a very productive meeting with [REDACTED] and will be representing her.

Merry Christmas! Kathy

Hi Bob, Kathy, and Amy: On Friday, [REDACTED] went out to the Palm Beach Cty Stockade to deliver the work release notification letter to [REDACTED]. She had never received the original victim notification letter, so we provided her with a copy of that as well. She was surprised and upset to hear that Epstein is also at the Stockade. They are in different buildings, but on the same "campus." She wants to ask the Sheriff to move Epstein or her so they are not in the same place. She seemed interested in contacting you, so I wanted to wait until today to see if she has reached out to you for representation before I contact the Sheriff's Office.

Have you heard from her? If so, will you contact PBSO on her behalf?

Thank you all.

I am attaching an article and an editorial from this weekend's Palm Beach Daily News regarding the work release issue.
