SUPPLIED TO [REDACTED] - 7th JANUARY 2020

ALSO SUPPLIED PACKAGE OF EVIDENCE OF TARGETING.

VINCENT BULONE - 2018-2019 CONSPIRED SEXUAL TARGETING.

Start of relationship - Dating Relationship stresses that I have been reacting to

PATTERN OF BEHAVIOUR - SEXUAL TARGETING.

* Italian Restaurant

Young Italian waitress was being very friendly with Vincent - Vincent was responding being over friendly and flirty / charming in return. Acting like I wasn't even there - having personal conversations with each other in Italian - she turned her back towards me and focused the attention on Vincent - Vincent precipitated the behaviour - she leant right down towards him and placed her hand affectionately on his shoulder talking Italian. Vincent barely paid me any attention. I gave her a cross look and also a concerning look towards the manager of the restaurant who was in the kitchen. The waitress was taken off our table and replaced with another and put on the bar. After the meal Vincent turned sideways to me and faced the Italian waitress in the bar and followed her movements around the bar as if trying to catch her attention. I gave him a disconcerting look. We left the restaurant. I told him off back in the hotel room. I felt embarrassed, disrespected and betrayed, demeaned. Vincent apologised for his behaviour.

* Robbie Davies - Adelaide University - Colleague

While Vincent was in another relationship - He left this relationship for me, had started dating me while in that relationship, was on a dating site
Vincent told me that he had been sending Robbie Davies personal photos of himself, going to university dinners with her and presentations and lunches with her while at work - messages sent by text, phone. Robbie Davies was constantly ringing him every Sunday night - personal conversations and while he was travelling - she had invited him out to stay at her house out of town for a weekend - Vincent said that it was for a university conference, work related event - I said not without me your not - It didn't eventuate Vincent informed me. Robbie Davies seemed to seeking his attention continuously, constantly and he was responding. This happened continuously.

Vincent and I went away for a romantic weekend, Robbie Davies rang on the Sunday night when we got back to his house - personal conversation - Vincent told her where he went for the weekend and did not mention that he was with me and spoke as if he went alone - Did not mention me once. He said the words goodnight to her. I questioned why he didn't mention that we had gone together or me at all - He said that he didn't speak about his personal life with his colleagues and that he wanted to tell her face to face not over the phone.

This continued for months.

I found out my dad had cancer 2 days earlier and waited all day for his comfort.

He did not ask me how I was or mention my dad at all when he arrived home. The moment he got home all he spoke about was Robbie Davies and didn't even ask how I was - I told him off.

He told me that he told her about me and our relationship - he said that she laughed.

He told me how she was always acting playful with him and with each other and going to lunch with each other at work while I sat at home waiting for him at the end of each day.

He stopped going to dinners and presentations he was going to with her and did not take me instead.

I told him to back this friendship off and stop acting that way with another women and that it was hurting me, disrespecting our relationship and causing mistrust and damage.

He told me he had stopped and stopped speaking about her at home all the time. But her emails kept coming through with personal emojis attached - not professional

He snuck into the ensuite bathroom with his tablet one weekend after getting notification on his phone when we where out together that weekend and acted strangely when he read it and did not tell me anything, acted secretly. When I became suspicious of his behaviour I checked his phone while he was in the bathroom. It was from Robbie Davies seeking his attention. When I confronted him and said did you sneak into the bathroom to send Robbie Davies a message he firmly and defensively denied it and said that I was being paranoid and told me if I didn't trust him our relationship was not going to work.

I kept on about it for weeks because I knew the truth. He finally angrily admitted it when I told him I looked at his phone and blamed me for putting pressure on him about being on his emails all the time and every moment we were together.

He never apologised and made me feel guilty for wanting him to give me some undivided attention away from work.

Told me that he had bought her a present - a silk scarf - he had also bought a silk scarf for me when we first starting dating - I told him that it was inappropriate and personal and as he had bought one for me does he do that with all the women and I said it was now nothing special and had no special meaning and that I would not now ever wear it. He denied that he was doing anything wrong.

I went to a university conference, Robbie Davies was there, I walked up to join Vincent's PA who was standing with her talking, I was visible to Robbie Davies. She would not look at me and held her head down towards the floor and rushed away quickly, did not say hello or acknowledge me in anyway.

* Michelle - Adelaide University - employee

Michelle kept messaging Vincent day and night through personal messaging apps with her personal issues. Contacted Vincent once at 4am in the morning with her personal issues while he was away from the university travelling in the US - He got out of bed to address and support her personal issues.

This went on for months

Would not fire her even though she was submitting wrong results and incompetent at her job - he was letting everyone else go when the grant money ran out but extended her contract.

I told him to back this personal contact off and as her boss his relationship at work should be professional and he was acting inappropriately in a relationship (ours) which was damaging and disrespectful towards me. He denied that he was doing anything wrong. This behaviour stopped.

* Annie - Adelaide University - Colleague

Kept getting sms messages at the same time every night when he got home from work - was acting strangely and suspiciously - He never spoke about Annie to me or mentioned her name.

I found his behaviour odd and suspicious and relating to previous behaviour so I checked his sms messages on his tablet that were connected to his phone. I found numerous messages to Annie - meeting her for lunch constantly - lots of interaction - picking her up from another location of campus in my red car that he had bought for me and telling her that he missed her - I felt Betrayed. - NO REGRETS

I confronted him and told him that I had read the messages on his tablet - He said that it was a joke - seemed nervous and defensive - we argued - told him he was lying to me, hiding things and it was inappropriate behaviour in a relationship, that he was hurting me.

He denied that he was doing anything wrong and blamed me for not trusting him.

Pattern forming - Behavioural - I was aware

He disconnected his phone from the tablet so no sms messages could be seen on it and changed his password when he travelled next.

Saw the messages to Annie saying he was drinking with the girls and she should come and join him - Denied he was drinking at work and I was being paranoid - he was doing this after he had asked me to stop drinking - I quit for nearly a year - He also asked me to quit cigarettes - I did for nearly 7 months - he was doing this at work while I sat alone at home waiting for him to come home at the end of everyday.

* Natelie Betts - Adelaide University - employee

I met her at a university lunch for Christmas - seemed very comfortable and friendly with Vincent - playful - sat down inbetween me and Vincent as we sat next to each other on a long wooden bench at the table, nearly in Vincent's lap - I saw it as a rival behaviour and odd and disrespectful to a couple and their relationship.

Vincent was receiving constant messages from her while we were together and still messaging as soon as he got home from work while ignoring me and played with her - playful messages, laughing and giggling - sided with each other playfully against a company - told Natelie the way that this company had treated him which he had not spoke to me about or even mentioned - spoke about her constantly.

* I noticed a pattern of his behaviour coming home playful and excessively on a high of playfulness and happiness when she was at work - came home stressed and unhappy and saying his days were not constructive or productive and the atmosphere at work was boring because people were on holidays - she was on holidays. Told him it should be more productive because there's less distractions. He didn't seem excited about being with me.

Never spoke about her husband or remembered his name but claimed to have gone out to their place for dinner once before he had met me - I went to school with her husband.

She was sending him messages of chocolate cake that she had made and that she would bring it to work for him.

Told me all about how Natelie was building a business and what it entailed - I asked him about what my business entailed that I was building, he could not answer me, he didn't know.

Romantic Getaway

Went away together for a weekend - it was a place that she had just been to for a holiday - she kept sending him emails on where to go and what to do there - he said how nice she is and goes out of her way to do things for him - when he had asked her to do overtime and extra work at work she refused and said that she wouldn't do it

Spoke about her constantly the whole time we were away. I said that I would cook him something special - he said that she had spent a whole weekend cooking that dish for him before we had met - I got angry with him by the end of the weekend - I had had enough and felt unimportant like she had the influence over him and she was all he was thinking about and we only went there because of that influence.

He told me that he had bought her a silk scarf as a present - personal present not professional as he had bought for me and Robbie Davies.

This behaviour continued for months

I told him to stop it, it was disrespectful to our relationship and damaging, hurting me.

He denied that he was doing anything wrong - he stopped this behaviour so he told me.

She asked him to come to her place for dinner to teach her son French lessons. He said she invited us as her husband who I went to school with wanted to meet me and then mentioned about her son. At a university conference she asked me for us to come to her place for dinner as her son was going to France and he could learn the language from Vincent - she did not mention her husband at all or of him wanting to meet me. I told Vincent no we would not go and I didn't want to know her, that I found her to be disrespectful towards our relationship and me and acting inappropriately. He told me this had stopped.

* Under suspicion

He kept coming home with scratches on his shoulders and neck under a shirt and woollen jumper that he wore to work - I told him I was going to get some woolmix because he has scratches on his shoulders and neck every time he wears that jumper - he blamed my nails - we had not made love - the scratches stopped

* Suzanne - Adelaide University - Colleague

Suzanne said that she was glad to met me at a university conference - that Vincent now had a spring in his step and adored me after seeming to have such a heavy life - told me he had told her he was coming up to the country to meet me when we had first met - mentioned my photograph in his office - he had never mentioned Suzanne before - had told me about Robbie Davies that he didn't talk about his personal life with his colleagues when I had confronted him about her.

When confronted with this he told me that I was being paranoid - blamed me and denied any wrong doing.

* Office - Adelaide University

Gave him a photograph in a frame as a present for valentines day that he had told me that he had placed on his desk and removed it on the weekends so that the cleaners did not disturb his personal belongings - he had numerous displays of presents and personal cards from colleagues on his shelves that are never shifted - went to office during the week - my picture was not displayed and sat in the packaging on the bench upon the pile of papers and things as if never touched and had just been placed there and forgotten - I asked him to put it on the display shelves with his

TARGETED VICTIM CANCELLED APPOINTMENT - AWARE
VINCENT BULONE CONNECTED AND INVOLVED - TARGETING

other displays facing the door entrance as you walk in - he placed it in a corner shelving where it is barely visible to anyone that walks in the office and sitting at his office table.
Noticed a receipt for jewellery and a Gucci carry bag in his office - when confronted he told me that it was a joke and there was nothing to it

He had told me that he had bought a silk scarf for his PA - who is my friend

* Stopped looking deep into my eyes and telling me I had the most beautiful eyes and started to look away all the time, dropping his eyes from mine - I found this behaviour deceitful like he had something to hide. Walking along the beach - talking about the blue of the sky - I said you use to say my eyes were bluer and more beautiful than the sky - Vincent answered yes they are but I like brown eyes too - he has never mentioned brown eyes before

* Wouldn't stop messaging and talking to his ex who lived in Sweden where he also worked for nearly a year - did not tell anyone in Sweden that we were together for nearly a year - said that he did not talk about his personal life with his colleagues but everyone knew that he had been with his ex while they were together.

* I had to keep quiet and stay out of view while living with him in his home every time he Skyped with his parents and he pretended with them to still be with his ex partner - he told me he didn't want to worry them about him or cause them to worry - said that he wanted to tell them in person - he told them nearly a year later while he was travelling - then he introduced me over Skype.

* He took me to Norway - while at the airport a woman colleague approached, they were talking very friendly - he had never mentioned her to me - she looked me up and down strangely
While at a science conference he chased after this woman attentively while I was with him talking friendly on a personal level - followed her to a dining table, we sat down, he turned his back to me and gave her his full attention, laughing and giggling together while she was flicking her hair and laughing with him while he leaned in closer - I felt ignored, embarrassed and disrespected - inappropriate behaviour to our relationship - He finally turned to me - I gave him a disconcerting look - he kept his attention on me after that and ignored her - I told him off for this when we got back to the hotel room - he denied that he was acting inappropriately

* Sitting in an airport - Europe after the convention - a blonde lady was sitting in a chair next to us - Vincent started staring at her and followed her with his eyes up and down the corridor and back while he sat next to me like I wasn't even there - I threatened to walk out and come back to Australia that it was the end of our relationship - he got very worried and apologised.
I met his parents on this trip.

* Vincent asked me to marry him several times, I said yes - when I would talk about it, when and how he would tell me that it made him feel nervous - he says now that he won't marry me until I trust him

* Marta - Adelaide University - connected to a colleague - Science Twitter account
This woman suddenly appeared on his twitter account - she was following him on the account and he took a keen interest in her - following her following him and on the account all the time - he showed me a picture of her and said that he had asked a colleague about her and the picture she was using on her twitter account was not her but a picture of a young blond student of hers.
Vincent had had no previous direct contact with Marta before this - Marta started sending him personal photos of her holidays, beaches by email and personal messages - when confronted he denied he had done anything wrong and that she was connected to one of his projects through a direct colleague of the project but that he had not had direct contact with her before - I said what did you do or how did you act with her to make her think that she could get personal with you - he denied doing anything wrong and that he did not respond to the email and blamed me for being untrusting and paranoid.

* Kylie - Adelaide University - colleague

Vincent and I were messaging during the morning—he said that he was swamped with work and under the pump, very busy and he had to work more that evening as he had been during the week - something, intuition made me look at his work day calendar on his tablet, daily tasks - the afternoon was set aside and read Drinks with Kylie - he did not mention this or have not heard of Kylie before - when confronted he denied doing anything wrong and that it was a farewell party for Kylie and a lot of people had been invited as she was leaving the university - I questioned the content of the message as displayed on his calendar which seemed unprofessional and said that it would have been more professional and logical to have been written in as Farewell party for Kylie if that's what it was - once again he described her personally as not being attractive and blamed me for being untrusting and paranoid

I over reacted to this event after all of these events happening continuously over a period of a year and I had become exasperated with this kind of behaviour which was extremely hurtful, frustrating and demeaning and I felt unsupported emotionally - I slapped him a couple of times hard when I was confronting him over this event - I moved out of the house - we are still together but need to address these issues and me to re learn how to react to emotional stresses - Vincent has recently agreed and now says that he does understand how I feel about this behaviour and accepts how I feel - I now feel relieved and am hoping to mend our relationship with this new understanding and acceptance

I have suffered bad relationships of violence, betrayal, lies and cheating which made me very aware of odd, peculiar behaviour and deceitful behaviour which Vincent was displaying continuously. I do not think that I was making this up and was within my rights to feel lied to, betrayed, disrespected and demeaned. It felt like a disrespect of my intelligence, intuition and to me as a person and my experiences within relationships very obvious.

He said I had no right to check his personal messages based on all this information

Vincent lived a life of solitude, dedicated to work, very lonely, no woman affections until late in life. I was his second relationship. I feel that he is inexperienced in relationships and had felt neglected emotionally and physically for most of his life and developed this behaviour of seeking women's attention at work because of this lifestyle and is unaware of his own behaviour and now does not want to give up the attention he receives as it makes him feel important and not neglected, this is why he denies the behaviour and blames me.

I feel now because I have had bad relationships and a hard life that I wanted to badly believe that I was worthy of love and deserved the life he gave me, that I wanted it so badly that I took the blame, turned a blind eye reluctantly against my intuition and made excuses for his behaviour because of the life that he had lived and his inexperience in relationships. That I wanted to give him everything he had not had and wanted him to feel loved. I found him endearing. I do love him very much and want to address these issues in our relationship and re learn how to react correctly to emotional stresses without over reacting and going to extremes - I want to learn how to express how I feel correctly before it becomes a explosive issue. I want Vincent to address this behaviour, accept it as inappropriate and to not hurt me with it anymore.

* Sweden - Free coffee - a man in a restaurant at the units where we were staying was giving me free coffee - Vincent became jealous and tight lipped, angry and accused me of flirting with him to get the coffee and said that he would shoot him—he now says that he was joking and denies that he got jealous

* A man said hello to me on a footpath as I got out of the car - Vincent became instantly angry and jealous and said you only said hello back because your polite didn't you - I said yes - he said I'll kill him

* If a man looked at me admiringly he would put his arm around me and say fuck off she's mine

* He was jealous and angry over any man showing me any interest even though I did not respond
