EXECUTIVE SUMMARY - PROPOSAL - INNOVATIVE DESIGN

COMPUTERISED SHOP ASSISTANT - Computer program - Scanning program and unit used by employee's of store - Shop Assistant Pad Unit

Modern technology - Incorporating the systems of stores computerised data of shelved products to assist their customers with finding specific products within the store.

Designed to aid the customer in their search for categorised items or specific items within the store and the items availability. Manual input of each item will be automatically spell checked and corrected in line with the items details stored within the data upon the Computerized Shop Assistant Pad. Automatic selection of categorised items is available upon the Shop Assistant pad for ease of selection and availability of a specific item.

Selection of an item will be displayed within the display window and directions of the location of the item will be displayed as section, isle or location for ease of the customer to locate that item within the store without assistance from an employee.

The Scanner unit will be utilised by the employee of the store when stocking shelves which collects the data via the bar code of each item and the manual input of the location of that item and automatically stores the information upon the Computerized Shop Assistant Pad in participation of the customers needs and requirements.

The Computerized Shop Assistant is connected to the stores cash register computer system to record the decrease in availability of an item upon each sale.

Computerized Shop Assistant Pads can be located at the entrance of the store or various locations within the store and at the discretion of the director or manager of the store and in consideration of the convenience to the customer.

SPECIFICATIONS

The Computerized Shop assistant Pad consists of stored data of each item within the store collected by the Scanner unit and transferred to the pad.

The pad consists of display windows to display the data of the item and location of that item within the store. The customer can manually input a specific item by typing the information on the keyboard or use the automatic selection key pad categories located on the Shop Assistant Pad. Display windows consist of: Item selection, automatic selection or manual input - Display of quantity / In stock, which is connected to the stores cash register system to decrease the quantity of the item available upon each sale - Item location, section, isle, location - Quantity required by customer, arrows to increase or decrease quantity - Help and Support. The display window of the category or brand name of the item is a touch screen to manually scrolled through to search for the specific item required by the customer.

The Scanner unit consists of : Bar code scanner to scan the stores items when stocking shelves - Numbered keypad for manual input of location of that item - Touch screen display window for manual input when location is required, which displays as a grid, instead of isle or section number of location of an item.
