Mid North And Yorke Peninsula

Health

There are 19 health services in the region, located at Port Broughton, Ardrossan, Balaklava, Maitland, Minlaton, Moonta, Wallaroo, Riverton, Jamestown, Orreroo, Peterborough, Laura (Rocky River), Burra, Clare, Eudunda, Snowtown, Hamley Bridge, Yorketown and Booleroo Centre.

The significant numbers of early retired and aged persons in the region is a major issue for the provision of health services.

There are some access difficulties to local and metropolitan health facilities due to limited public and community transport.

Housing

Land values throughout the region, especially on Yorke Peninsula and around Clare, are rising as a result of interest from retirees and people seeking a different pace of life. This has seen an increase in housing, if not permanent residents, in residential developments at Port Vincent marina, Black Point, Wallaroo marina, Moonta and Marion Bay. Holiday homes held by absentee owners are increasingly becoming permanent retirement homes in many towns.

Expansion of Primo by another 200 full time employees (FTE) to 500 people over the next two years and new poultry facilities will increase the demand on housing.

Education and Training

- ◆ Hospital
- ▲ TAFE
- School
- Main road

A network of educational facilities including TAFE Regional Institute campuses in Kadina, Yorketown and Narungga (at Point Pearce / Maitland) serves the Yorke Peninsula. The Mid North has three TAFE campuses located at Clare, Jamestown and Peterborough. There is training in the areas of tourism and hospitality, primary industry value-adding and aquaculture, as well as the aged care and retirement industries.

TAFE courses are available through distance education.

The demand for childcare facilities in the region has increased.

Waste Management

Many of the towns in the region are facing the renewal of solid waste disposal licences. The Central Region Local Government Association is developing a Mid North/Southern Flinders regional waste management strategy, including the potential for a new central solid waste disposal site.

The District Council of Copper Coast has a solid waste recycling system and separation plant, which it operates as a joint venture with the private sector.

Composting sites are required for the processing of waste from intensive animal farming and other agricultural sources.

Better Choices Better Health

- provide for the needs of an ageing population, by support in the home, early intervention and improved recuperation, rehabilitation and respite facilities
- balance the need to centralise complex, expensive or rare treatments and procedures, with decentralisation made possible by information technology, telemedicine and community based care
- deliver high quality care through networked clinical services in local, regional and central settings.

* GHR recognises the intentions and attempts made by the system to achieve system reform. However, this cannot be achieved without fundamental structural reform and government and health system commitment to it. *

The implications are clear. System reform is essential.

The health system is under stress, with increasing budget and demand pressures. It is not sustainable into the next generation on grounds of quality of care, efficiency and equity.

Despite this escalating pressure and demand, a professional, committed and passionate workforce staffs South Australia's health services, with many people working over and above required working hours. The workforce cannot sustain the pressures for much longer, despite the support of dedicated volunteers and family carers.

* GHR's proposals address this unsustainability. Unless they are acted upon, the government will face difficulties in achieving its health and social agenda commitments. *

The directions proposed in this report are not new or world-shattering. They are similar to what is happening internationally in health in countries comparable to Australia. It is not the directions that are controversial; it is the act of implementing them.

Systemic reform of the health industry is not easy. However, there are real reasons for optimism. Though there are no guarantees of success, the dynamics of change are much better understood. Knowing the challenges and the difficulty of the work will be an advantage and will thwart unrealistic expectations.

* Chapter One presents the case for change for the South Australian public health system. A wide range of factors impact on the health system. These include significant demographic, cultural, economic and social changes, and dramatic changes in health care delivery and technology. There is also increasing community awareness, with consumers expecting and believing they have the right to the best of the latest technology and treatments, despite the uncertain values of some of these interventions.

* By world standards, Australia has a good health system. However, there are inequalities. The role of the social determinants of health<sup>1</sup> are addressed in this context. The burden of disease has moved towards more chronic conditions. All of these factors cause pressure on the system and impact on the capacity of the system to maintain high quality, safe services.

* A modelling exercise carried out by GHR to the year 2011 indicates that, if the proposed reforms are not implemented, the future scenario is bleak. There will be a continuing demand for additional investment in acute hospital services at the expense of primary care. Treatment of illness will remain the dominant focus rather than prevention and early intervention.

The South Australian health 'system' is fragmented and uncoordinated. This is exemplified by multiple planning processes, regional boundaries, project funding and governance arrangements.

The case for change provides a blunt message. System reform is the only way to ensure that the next generation of South Australians has a health system that meets its needs.

- * Chapter Two outlines how today's governance arrangements in the South Australian public health system are enshrined in the South Australian Health Commission Act 1976 (SAHC Act) which brought together a range of disparate hospitals and health services under a unified system of governance.

Times have changed. Today, one of the primary objectives of health systems around the world is to promote cohesion, ensuring service coordination and integration to best meet population health needs. The challenge for governments is to improve coordination and integration without losing the ability to remain responsive to local and regional communities.

The current governance and funding arrangements of the system, which has over 70 separately incorporated health units, present a significant challenge to establishing a coordinated and reoriented system for the future.

A population health funding model is recommended, supported by a regional governance structure to promote population health, meet equity objectives and find ways to enhance service coordination and collaboration.

- * Chapter Three outlines the weaknesses in the current care delivery system. Apart from the fragmentation and lack of cohesion previously mentioned, the Commonwealth-state funding arrangements provide an additional impediment to establishing a seamless primary health care focused system.

- * The lack of information technology, telecommunications and appropriate community based resources has also retarded progress. A framework is provided to assist in overcoming some of these obstacles to achieving a primary health care focused system that has a commitment to disease prevention, health promotion and early intervention. Key attributes are explored, from consumer and system perspectives. System components and mechanisms for integration, partnerships and coordination are described.

- * Engagement with the Commonwealth and local governments is required to ensure coherence of planning, policy and funding directions to enable an integrated primary health care system to be provided. Enabling infrastructure, specifically for information technology, telecommunications, capital, research and health futures, is addressed.

Chapter Four puts the case that accountable and effective management of public resources is a fundamental responsibility and challenge for government. Accountability and transparency for the quality and safety of health services is a key aspect of health system performance. However, information is typically poorly disseminated and engagement of the community, consumers and clinicians in decision-making processes happens more by chance than by design.

A framework is provided that will deliver accountable and transparent governance of the health system, founded on the principles of community, consumer and clinician involvement. Mechanisms and structures are proposed to provide meaningful community involvement in decision making and strong clinical governance.

- 4.12 DHS develop a strategy for coordinating ongoing public information and education across the health system.
- 4.13 DHS support the development of community capacity to provide independent consumer voices within the health system.

* Chapter 5: Workforce development

- 5.1 DHS and health services provide management training and development to ensure effective leadership capacity and creative responses to change.
- 5.2 DHS establish a statewide health workforce planning group with responsibility for:
- * (i) developing integrated information systems, including human resource systems, that will provide accurate workforce data and information *
  - (ii) developing a strategic planning process that employs appropriate evidence based methodologies and enables identification of future health workforce requirements
  - (iii) ensuring integration of workforce, service and financial planning
  - * (iv) developing partnerships with universities, technical and further education, * and other key stakeholders, to facilitate implementation of health workforce plans
  - (v) developing a future clinical workforce that reduces demarcations, encourages teamwork, and enhances career opportunities and skills
  - (vi) developing a marketing and recruitment capacity for the health system with resources contributed by major public and private employers
  - (vii) developing an approach to regular staff satisfaction/climate surveys to be used by DHS and regional health services with the capacity for statewide benchmarking.
- 5.3 DHS develop a comprehensive strategy to attract mature age students from rural areas into health professional education. *
- 5.4 The State Government, through DHS and all South Australian universities, approach the Commonwealth Government to seek approval and funding for the introduction of a postgraduate distance education program for generic rural health practitioners. *
- 5.5 DHS provide a focus on the development of the Aboriginal health workforce by initially:
- (i) regulating and formally recognising the role of the Aboriginal health worker
  - (ii) extending funding for Aboriginal health worker training from an annual cycle to a three-year cycle
  - (iii) increasing the number of clinical placements for Aboriginal nurses
  - (iv) funding statewide cultural awareness training on an ongoing basis to address racism faced by Aboriginal health staff.

Rural Health Services

* Medical Specialist Outreach Assistance Program *

The Medical Specialist Outreach Assistance Program improves access to specialist services in rural and remote Australia.

The Medical Specialist Outreach Assistance Program (MSOAP) improves the access of people living in rural and remote Australia to medical specialist services by complementing outreach specialist services provided by state and Northern Territory governments.

This is achieved by providing specialists with financial assistance to cover some of the costs associated with delivering outreach services, such as travel, accommodation and consulting room hire costs, as well as for upskilling and/or professional support to local general practitioners, specialists and other health professionals, such as allied health professionals.

The delivery and support of outreach medical specialist services has achieved considerable success over the last four years. The MSOAP provides more than 1,375 specialist services annually to rural and remote communities.

* The Government has committed additional funding of $9 million over three years, commencing in 2008-09, to support the expansion of the MSOAP to improve rural and remote community access to a range of medical specialist services. This additional funding will provide opportunities for new and expanded MSOAP services, and reduce waiting lists for people in rural and remote communities to obtain treatment. *

For more information about the Medical Specialist Outreach Assistance Program please contact the relevant office of the Department of Health and Ageing or the State or Northern Territory fundholders. Alternatively, contact the Department's rural health information line on [REDACTED] or by email.

Implementing the 10 Year Local Health Service Plans

* NOT PORT PIRIE

Country Health SA has established five local Taskgroups to prioritise and implement the recommendations of the 10 Year Local Health Service Plans.

The Taskgroups have been created according to geographical area and will cover:

- > Eyre, Flinders Ranges and the Far North
- * > Mid and Lower North, Yorke and Barossa
- > Inner Country
- > Riverland and Mallee Coorong
- > South East

Brett Humphrys (A/Manager, Planning Projects) said the five Taskgroups has commenced their role to determine the top health priorities for implementation across the region over the next three years.

* "The local community has been working for some time now on their 10 Year Local Health Service Plans which provide the strategic long term vision for their health services," Mr Humphrys said.

"Each Taskgroup has reviewed the directions outlined in the plans for their areas to determine the priorities and timing for new or enhanced health services."

The members of the Taskgroups come from a variety of professions including doctors, nurses, allied health staff, Aboriginal health delegates, local government representatives and HAC members.

* Mr Humphrys said the Taskgroups have considered the recommendations in the 10 year plans and are working with key stakeholders to outline how the priority services can be implemented.

"The Taskgroup will draft a 1-3 year implementation plan which will give consideration to aspects such as Aboriginal health, aged care and mental health; and what actions and resources are required to implement the important priorities in the short term," Mr Humphrys said.

The Taskgroups will aim to complete the 1-3 year implementation plan by the end of March 2012.

The 10 Year Local Health Service Plans were prepared by local Health Advisory Councils in conjunction with local clinicians and health services.

* In February 2011 the Minister released four of the 33 plans outlining strategic directions for Whyalla, Port Lincoln, Mount Gambier and the Riverland.

The 29 remaining plans will be finalised and released in the coming months.

Visit www.countryhealthsa.sa.gov.au/planningservices to find out more about the 10 Year Local Health Service Plans. ## Increased paediatric capacity at Mount Gambier

Children and parents in the South East have a new reason to smile with increased capacity in the paediatric team at Mount Gambier Hospital.

The facility now has two fulltime paediatricians and recruitment is ongoing for a further .5 position, a significant boost to children's health in the region.

The team is also supported by a full time medical officer and a paediatric registrar position which is filled by trainees on a six month rotation.

Paediatrician Dr Shahid Haque said the increased capacity was very good news for the South East.

"With the great paediatric team we have in place now we are better equipped to meet the needs of the local community," Dr Haque said.

"It's a significant increase to the level of service we're able to provide and this is reflected in the extra workload we're seeing now.

"We're getting busier and busier all the time."

Dr Haque said the vast improvement in the equipment available at Mount Gambier Hospital was also a big factor.

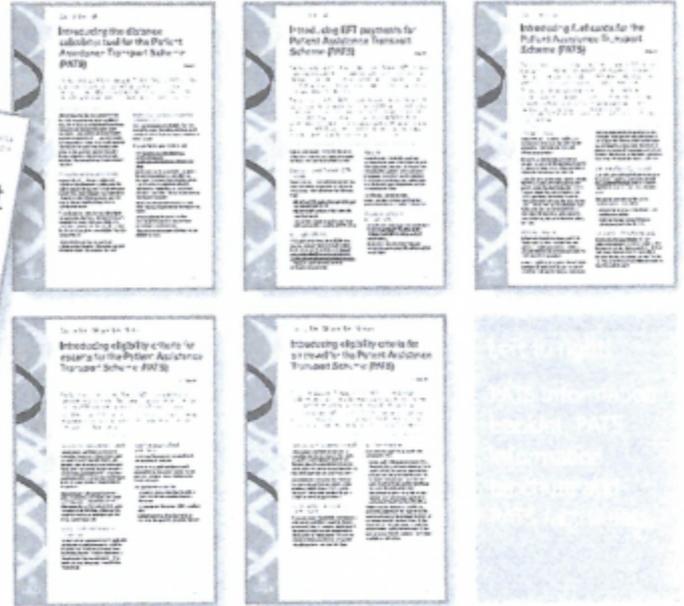

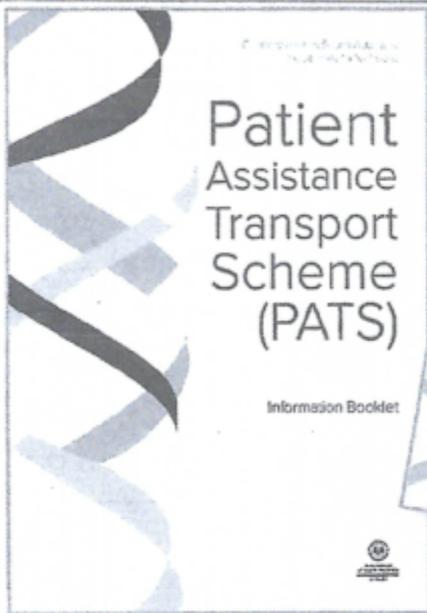

"Previously many patients were required to travel to Adelaide for simple diagnoses," Dr Haque said.

"It's hard for patients to make that journey especially when we're talking about parents with sick children.

"Now a vast majority can come to Mount Gambier Hospital which is much more convenient.

"This is a really positive thing for the Mount Gambier community."

Improvements to the Patient Assistance Transport Scheme announced

The Patient Assistance Transport Scheme (PATS) is a subsidy program funded by the Government of South Australia to assist people travelling more than 100km each way to receive approved medical services.

Nino DiSisto, Director of Country Health SA said enhancements are being introduced to the scheme to streamline the process when patients need to travel to access specialist health care.

"Earlier this year we introduced the first round of improvements which included an online distance calculator and electronic funds transfer," Mr DiSisto said.

"The new online distance calculator uses up-to-date GPS mapping data to allow patients, health practitioners and the broader community to determine how many kilometres need to be travelled and receive an estimate of their PATS reimbursement.

"Then instead of waiting for a cheque to arrive, patients will have the funds deposited into their account, avoiding frustrating delays in purchasing fuel and tickets."

Mr DiSisto said further changes were introduced from 1 November 2011 including pre-approved medical endorsement for air travel and clinical criteria for approval of air-travel and escorts.

"These PATS updates have been introduced to make the process faster, fairer and more consistent for all patients across Country Health SA," Mr DiSisto said.

"Under the new system South Australians will have a more efficient and secure service to support them when they need it the most."

All the changes are explained in a new Information Booklet, Brochure, Fact Sheets and Application Form.

Over 25 information forums were held across regional South Australia to explain the refinements, and deliver the new communications materials to stakeholders between September and October 2011.

Improvements from 1 November 2011

- > Eligibility criteria & pre approval for air travel (outlined in Information Booklet)
- > Eligibility criteria for escorts (outlined in Information Booklet)
- > New Information Booklet and Brochure
- > Facts sheets on escorts and air travel
- > Updated application form

How does the PATS process work?

STEPS

- 1 Go to the local doctor***
  - Verify that the specialist service is not available locally and seek authorisation for PATS assistance (transport, accommodation or escorts).
  - Local doctor completes section 1 of application form on first claim of this issue.
- 2 Go to the specialist***
  - Confirm attendance and need for further appointments and PATS assistance (transport, accommodation or escorts).
  - Specialist completes section 2 of application form.
- 3 After your medical appointments
  - Patient/service provider completes section 2 of application form.
  - Send completed forms and receipts to PATS office.
- 4 Payment
  - Payment of any assistance you're entitled to within six weeks of lodgement.

$36 Million Ceduna Redevelopment Complete

The new Ceduna District Health Services main entrance.

* The Ceduna GP Plus Health Care Centre has opened its doors to local residents, * marking the completion of the $36 million Ceduna District Health Services redevelopment.

GP services, Child and Adolescent Mental Health, dental services, community health, allied health and Home and Community Care Services are all now available.

Health Minister John Hill says the redeveloped facility is a great asset for the Ceduna community, offering a new - integrated - approach to health.

"The Government and Country Health SA are committed to enhancing primary health care services in country areas to help reduce demand on our local hospitals," Minister Hill said.

"The Ceduna District Health Services redevelopment is a fantastic example of this, with acute hospital services and primary health care services now under the same roof.

"Patients are able to access hospital services, GPs, dentistry, community health, allied health, physiotherapy, mental health, dietetics and a day activity centre, all from a single point of entry."

Stage One of the project was completed in March 2011 with a brand new Emergency Department, theatre suite, day procedure unit and residential aged care facility added on to the existing building.

Stage Two of the project is now also complete following an extensive refurbishment of the old building which now houses the Ceduna GP Plus Health Care Centre.

"The facility has been specifically designed with patient flow in mind," Minister Hill said.

"The new layout is much easier for the community to navigate and is also more efficient because it shares staff and resources.

"The result is a modern, state of the art design which is accessible to everyone."

The facility was formally opened by the Health Minister on 30 September with an Open Day including tours of the facility, entertainment and a community BBQ.

*Country Health SA improves home delivered meal service.*

Country Health SA has streamlined its home delivered meal service, standardising meal packages and prices across the State.

Under the new system, clients in all parts of South Australia will now receive soup, a main course and dessert when they order their $6.80 home delivered meal from 19 September 2011.

Country Health SA Executive Director Corporate Services Onno van der Wel said the changes are in keeping with Meals on Wheels SA three course meal service and prices, and will provide consistency to country residents.

"To date, the prices clients have been charged for home delivered meals have varied and there have been differing levels of service, with some clients receiving only main meals whilst others have received the full three courses," Mr van der Wel said.

Prior to 19 September, prices charged for home delivered meals varied from $4 in Kimba, Cleve and Elliston to $6.50 in many other locations.

CHSA has staggered the price increase for clients in Kimba, Cleve and Elliston over six months, with costs increasing to $5.80 from 19 September and will reach parity with other sites from 1 March 2012.

"Standardising prices means that home delivered meals clients in all parts of the State will know that when they place their order, they will receive a nutritious three course meal," Mr van der Wel said.

Patients receiving home delivered meals now get more; they receive a fresh soup, main course and a dessert as a standard service. Previously, not all South Australians received this service.

"We recognise that for people on a fixed income, the increase may have an impact. This is why CHSA is phasing in the new pricing arrangement."

Under the scheme, healthy and nutritious meals are home delivered to clients, including older South Australians, those with disabilities and their carers.

Home delivered meals help improve overall wellbeing, enabling clients to stay in their own homes, enjoy improved health through balanced nutrition and keep in touch with their local community.

InBrief

Midwives now visiting Roxby Downs every two weeks

Expectant mothers in Roxby Downs will now have fortnightly access to support and advice from Port Augusta midwives until the locally based position has been filled. While the visits previously occurred every six weeks, demand has led Country Health SA (CHSA) to add more midwives to the rotation, meaning the service can now be offered at regular two week intervals.

Ros McRae, Director Flinders and Outback Health Service, CHSA said the visiting midwives provide ante-natal and post-natal appointments, free of charge for anyone in the community.

"Originally we weren't sure how much capacity the visiting midwives would have but with such a fantastic response to the service we've been able to secure more midwives to help staff it," Ms McRae said.

"With current staffing we can now confirm that the visits will occur approximately every two weeks.

*IMPLEMENT * BASED UPON RESEARCH * New contract extension for medical imaging in Port Pirie

Residents in Port Pirie will soon have greater access to radiologists locally with the announcement of an extended medical imaging contract.

Country Health SA has negotiated a three year extension of the contract with I-MED which will offer greater availability of radiologists and the re-introduction of mammography services. I-MED has sourced a new digital mammography machine which was installed last month.

Onno van der Wel, Executive Director Corporate Services said the new extension will offer Port Pirie residents more access to medical imaging services locally.

"I am confident that under this new agreement the service will deliver the high standard of care local residents deserve," Mr van der Wel said.

"The new contract extension will resolve the issues of radiologist and equipment availability in Port Pirie.

Murray Bridge embraces Telepsychiatry

The Murray Bridge Mental Health team have been taking full advantage of a state-of-the-art video conferencing system to provide local residents with quick and easy access to mental health services.

While the team have been using telepsychiatry for a few years now, a $5 million state-wide upgrade of the Digital Telehealth Network earlier this year has ensured the service is better than ever.

New 42 inch televisions, high quality cameras and improvements to bandwidth mean that the image and audio quality is now of a high enough standard to carry out a wide range of clinical assessments via audio-visual conferencing.

Rachel Smith, a Clinical Practice Consultant with the Mental Health Team in Murray Bridge said the technology was used for a wide range of purposes, benefiting both patients and staff.

"We use telepsychiatry all the time to carry out assessments, discuss client care plans, participate in weekly Multi Disciplinary Team meetings with Rural and Remote Mental Health Services and have used it to confirm detention and treatment orders," Ms Smith said.

"Providing these high quality clinical assessments via video conferencing complements the face to face psychiatric assessments already carried out regularly in country areas by visiting and resident psychiatrists.

"We also use the system for team meetings, catching up with other clinicians, as well as for education and interviews so it's really useful for staff as well."

Ms Smith said the feedback from clients had been really positive.

"Initially, some clients can be a little daunted by the idea of talking to a screen but after a few minutes you adapt and it's just like you're in the same room," Ms Smith said.

"It's an invaluable conduit which has enabled us to continue to provide a high quality service here in Murray Bridge.

"Without this system we would have to send patients to Adelaide and many of our clients can't drive so without such technology, it's a real inconvenience.

"With something like this you're instantly saving time which means you're saving money that we can put back into providing services.

"We couldn't be without it now."

How to access the Telehealth Network?

- 1 Complete the Referral for Telepsychiatry Assessment form available from the Community Mental Health Teams (CMHT) or from the Telepsychiatry Coordinator, Rural and Remote Unit on phone (08) 8303 1348.
- 2 Fax the completed Referral for Telepsychiatry Assessment form to the Telepsychiatry Coordinator on fax (08) 8303 1362. Include any additional information, results from routine screening or scans, and the name of the nominated clinical person attending with the patient in the country location.
- 3 The Telepsychiatry Coordinator will ring the person making the referral to arrange a suitable time, once the priority rating is given and signed off by a Consultant.
- 4 The referrer books the videoconferencing equipment in the country location.
- 5 On the day, turn the video conferencing unit on, and the Consultant will dial into the unit at the agreed time.
- 6 After the appointment, the Psychiatrist may call the local doctor directly, a draft copy of the telepsychiatry report will be faxed to the local doctor and the CMHT shortly after, followed by a posted signed copy.

Expectant mothers in Roxby Downs will now have fortnightly access to support and advice from Port Augusta midwives until the locally based position has been filled.

While the visits previously occurred every six weeks, demand has led Country
 Health SA (CHSA) to add more midwives to the rotation, meaning the service can now be offered at regular two week intervals.

Ros McRae, Director Flinders
 and Outback Health Service, CHSA said the visiting midwives provide ante-natal and post-natal appointments, free of charge for anyone in the community.

"Originally we weren't sure how much capacity the visiting midwives would have but with such a fantastic response to the service we've been able to secure more midwives to help staff it," Ms McRae said.

"With current staffing we can now confirm that the visits will occur approximately every two weeks.

* IMPLEMENT * BASED UPON RESEARCH
 * New contract extension for * medical imaging
 * in Port Pirie *

Residents in Port Pirie will soon have greater access to radiologists locally with the announcement of an extended medical imaging contract.

Country Health SA has negotiated a three year extension of the contract with I-MED which will offer greater availability of radiologists and the re-introduction of mammography services.
 I-MED has sourced a new digital mammography machine which was installed last month.

Onno van der Wel, Executive Director Corporate Services said the new extension will offer Port Pirie residents more access to medical imaging services locally.

"I am confident that under this new agreement the service will deliver the high standard of care local residents deserve," Mr van der Wel said.

"The new contract extension will resolve the issues of radiologist and equipment availability in Port Pirie.

Budget highlights

2015 - 2016
FOLLOWING:

2006 - 2009 MEDICAL BUSINESS
PLAN RESEARCH + DEVELOPMENT

* Transforming our health system *

More than $260 million has been committed to upgrade our metropolitan hospitals, so we can deliver the best care for patients first time, every time.

One year of helping some of our most seriously injured

This budget marks the one year anniversary of the Lifetime Support Scheme which is expected to invest around $14 million in 2015-16 to help motorists severely injured in vehicle accidents in South Australia get the rehabilitation and support they need sooner, so they can return to their homes and community.

Supporting Health Research

An additional $5.1 million over four years, on top of our $33.7 million investment, has been made available by the State Government to support the South Australian Health and Medical Research Institute so that it can continue vital research to help us live healthier lives and reduce the level of healthcare we need in the future.

Making our paramedics jobs easier

This budget invests $4.8 million in 2015-16 towards the $15.5 million replacement of ambulance mechanical stretchers and handling units, to decrease the number of injuries experienced by our dedicated paramedics and increase patient comfort.

An additional $16.1 million over two years will also be invested to expand the ambulance fleet by 12 vehicles and to build and expand ambulance stations in the North, West and South. In addition, SA Health is committing funding to help get more ambulance crews on our streets and support staff.

Country Health SA launches - ROGER KIRCHNER AND BELINDA MOYES Inpatient Dashboards for Port Augusta and Mount Gambier

MSIC

* Residents of Port Augusta and Mount Gambier will now be able to access up-to-date information about the amount of people being treated in their local public hospitals.

* The Country Health SA Local Health Network (CHSALHN) launched inpatient dashboards for Port Augusta and Mount Gambier Hospitals following the successful release of the metropolitan data earlier this year.

* Professor Belinda Moyes, Chief Executive Officer CHSA LHN said the inpatient dashboards provide country residents with an opportunity to learn more about how their hospitals are managed.

* "The inpatient dashboard provides detailed information on the number of inpatients at each hospital at any one time," Professor Moyes said.

* "South Australia was the first state in the country to make this level of information available to the public and we are excited to extend this technology to country residents."

"Through the dashboard the general public can gain a better understanding about how patient flow is managed in our busy hospital environments."

How to interpret this chart

This table shows a summary of the status of all inpatient beds in the Port Augusta Hospital (PAHS).

In an online environment, you can click on the chosen hospital in the table and the whole dashboard will update to show data specific to that hospital.

The dashboard displays occupancy per hospital split across 'general' beds and 'all' beds, breakdown of inpatients, the length of stay, and much more.

Professor Moyes said the dashboard, which is available online, will be updated every 30 minutes to provide real-time information about bed occupancy, average length of stay and inpatient flows.

"The dashboard also includes information specific to each hospital about the number of patients currently within each area or clinical unit at the hospital," Professor Moyes said.

"It allows people to easily see all of the different 'streams' of inpatient care that each hospital provides, such as surgical or pediatrics, and the status of each of these areas.

"Staff already use the dashboard, along with a range of other tools, to help monitor and manage capacity and ensure that patient safety is maintained.

"By releasing this data publicly we are continuing to make our health system more transparent."

How to access the Inpatient Dashboard

www.sahealth.sa.gov.au

About us > Our performance > Our hospital dashboards

To see the inpatient data for Port Augusta and Mount Gambier Hospitals go to the SA Health website, and click on About Us, and then Our performance. From there, click on the Inpatient Dashboard, and then click on the country tab at the top right of the screen to access the country hospital information.

An IP Dashboard glossary and the frequently asked questions document are available online for further information.
