How did hackers get my info?

They usually take it by hacking into company databases you might have an online account with. Then they share or sell all of this info to other hackers in remote places in the internet called the dark web.

What do they use it for?

Hackers can use this info to try and access your banking, social media, or shopping accounts. Or, they use it to send you phony links to fake websites that try and trick you out of your credit card numbers and other info.

How can we help?

While no one can get your info back from the dark web, we warn you when we find it there and show you all the ways to take back control from hackers.

We're here for you.

Stay safe,

Thank you for your emails.

I have skimmed through the material that you have sent to me.

Some of the material relates to your business idea for a medical centre in Port Pirie, which you had contacted me about previously. I note that in April 2013 I advised you that our fees for taking instructions and providing advice in relation to that matter would be $1,000-$1,250 plus GST. If you like, we can still proceed on that basis.

There is also material relating to charges laid against you for resisting arrest and other material relates to what I understand to be a suspected criminal conspiracy in Port Pirie. Please note that this firm does not deal with criminal matters and accordingly we will be unable to assist you in either of those matters.

* Regarding the business plan issue, as I mentioned in April 2013, I am concerned that at this time there is no documentary evidence available to suggest a connection between you providing the business plan to Mr Kirchner and the establishment of a new medical centre. My preliminary view is that if no such documentary evidence exists, you will not have a tenable case for compensation. I would, however, need to consider the matter in more detail before providing my final advice to you if we were formally engaged to advise you on the matter.

Before engaging us, you should however carefully consider whether you will have the resources required to pursue any rights to compensation that we may identify. Litigation is expensive and you can expect to be required to pay approximately $20,000-$30,000 in legal fees and other costs if this matter proceeds to a trial. You do have the option of representing yourself in court, although in that case you may experience difficulty in having the court understand and accept your case and, moreover, this occupy a great deal of your time and may cause you significant stress.

The reason I raise these matters with you now is that unless you will be in a position to pursue any claims, it may not be worth the expense of having me review the matter.

If you would like to proceed with taking advice from us in relation to the business plan issue, please let me know. In that case, I will send a copy of our Terms of Engagement to you for your consideration.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact our office.
