TRAVEL TIPS

TRAVEL DOCUMENTS - Check all travel documents on receipt and immediately notify your Specialist of any discrepancies.

AIR TRAVEL RECOMMENDATIONS - Most airlines allow you to check-in online 24 hours prior to departure. We recommend that you also check with your airline prior to departure regarding luggage allowances/fees and to find a current list of items prohibited in checked and carry-on luggage. With many flights running full these days, make sure you arrive at the airport early to check-in. A good rule of thumb is two hours prior to departure (earlier for international flights) unless you have already checked in online.

EFFECTIVE Nov 1, 2010: The Transportation Security Administration (TSA) of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) has issued the Secure Flight Final Rule. The rule allows the TSA to begin implementation of the Secure Flight program. Under the new rule, TSA will receive limited information for each passenger traveling on:

- Flights within the United States
- Flights arriving from international destinations.
- Flights departing from international destinations.

NOTE: This rule also includes those not traveling but still requiring a boarding pass to escort a minor or disabled passenger to the gate into the sterile (airside) area.

It is now MANDATORY to provide the following information to Secure Flight.

- Full Name as it appears on the passenger's government issued photo I.D.
- Date of Birth and Gender

The TSA will determine if the information provided about a passenger matches a person on their 'No Fly' or 'Selectee' lists and will transmit results back to airlines. The new rule requires airlines to send passenger information on existing bookings 72 hours prior to departure, to be vetted against the TSA watch list in the effort to reduce the risk of a terrorist boarding a plane.

We are not expected to know which flights are subject to the TSA requirements. For this reason, it is mandatory that we collect the necessary information for all passengers to ensure the passengers are not held up at the airport and to avoid delays and complications.

TRAVEL TO CANADA - Travelers: Please be aware that entry to Canada may be denied to persons who have committed any act that is considered to be an offense under Canadian laws, such as driving while under the influence of alcohol. If you have a record of any criminal convictions, please see the following website to determine your admissibility to Canada. <http://www.cbsa-asfc.gc.ca/security-securite/admiss-eng.html>

ACCOMMODATIONS/AIRPORT TRANSFERS - The phone number for your lodging property is listed on your lodging voucher. If airport transfers are provided by your lodge, refer to the information on your lodging voucher. If your trip includes other ground transportation, the phone number for your ground transfer provider is listed on your transfer voucher.

MOUNTAIN WEATHER - Temperatures can vary greatly, both winter and summer. Bring clothes you can layer, and make sure outer layers are wind and water resistant.

HIGH ALTITUDE - Drink extra water, pace yourself, take breaks during the day, and keep a snack in your pocket. Avoid or reduce alcohol and caffeine. You should adjust to the altitude within a couple of days.

PACKING TIPS

Pre-trip anticipation is one of the biggest benefits of taking a vacation. Choosing what to pack for any type of getaway can be challenging, but packing ski or snowboard trip is especially difficult because you're going to be outside in winter's element, and often at very high elevations, where the weather can change quickly. To make sure you arrive at your destination with everything you need, We have compiled a checklist you can use during your packing process.

Ski/snowboard apparel and gear:

- Base layers (non-cotton long underwear with wicking ability)
- Mid layers (lightweight natural or synthetic down jacket or vest or microfleece or vest)
- Waterproof outerwear – preferably designed for skiing or snowboarding
- Waterproof gloves/mittens (bring liners if your hands tend to get cold easily)
- Helmet (highly recommended)
- Hat
- Neck gater, scarf, balaclava, bandana or BUFF® (to cover your face and neck in cold, windy temperatures)
- Ski/snowboard socks (non-cotton with wicking ability are best – one pair for every two days on the mountain)
- Goggles with UV protection
- Sunglasses with UV protection and Croakies®
- Snacks such as energy bars or something high in protein
- Sunscreen
- Lip balm
- Skis, snowboard, boots, poles (unless you are renting)

Après-ski wear:

- Jeans
- Comfortable, waterproof boots or shoes with good tread—especially if it's snowing in the town or base village or if you want to enjoy outdoor winter activities like snowshoeing, snow tubing or dog sledding
- Warm socks—especially for traipsing around in the snow
- Sweater, fleece or other warm top
- Jacket—if your ski/snowboard jacket is warm, you'll be fine
