Ha! you are funny...
YES! I will be here!
...and good that it is not a hacking attempt...scares me!

Me talk pretty one day, just not yet.

The first line of my message was me trying to say I had just signed into your account again at 6:30PM, so you could disregard the alert to that signin.

I agree that the timing of both "connection blocked" messages (~5PM) sound like something happening from your commute home. That's comforting, because it rules out a hacking attempt. I would like to figure out the cause so we can prevent these false positives from repeating.

Will you be @ the house when I visit for big [REDACTED] tomorrow? I can take a look @ your phone then.

I think you attempted to sign in yesterday later than this notice...this notice came to me at 5:29pm...I have another notice (I will send in next email) that came over right before you sent me your reply to this ...the other notice came at 6:30pm ...you sent me this reply at 6:32pm...

maybe you should have a look at all this tomorrow when you come!

That was me signing in again.

Can you force quit the Mail app on you iPhone? (Not gmail but the regular mail app) and then try reopening and see if you're getting emails in it.

Sign-in attempt prevented

Hi Lesley,

Someone just tried to sign in to your Google Account [REDACTED] from an app that doesn't meet modern security standards.

Details:

Tuesday, October 4, 2016 5:29 PM (Eastern Daylight Time)
New York, NY, USA*

We strongly recommend that you use a secure app, like Gmail, to access your account. All apps made by Google meet these security standards. Using a less secure app, on the other hand, could leave your account vulnerable. Learn more.

Google stopped this sign-in attempt, but you should review your recently used devices:
