The latest from New Canaan:

Faces of New Canaan: Wendy Lowy Sloane

By Michael Dinan

Even without a nationally syndicated radio show that in about two weeks will reach a five-year milestone, Wendy Lowy Sloane is a great candidate for a "Faces of New Canaan" profile. A resident of the town since 2002, Lowy Sloane is not only deeply involved in the community—she's spent several years as parent coordinator at [...]

Deadlocked at 2-2 as the puck dropped to begin the final period of Saturday's showdown with Darien, the New Canaan Rams boys hockey team was positioned to end its two-game losing streak and show the rest of the FCIAC that the defending conference champs were once again the team to beat. Darien, however, had a [...]

Town to Leave Newly Re-Paved Thayer Pond Road Free of Double Yellow Line

By Michael Dinan

 Thayer Pond Road in New Canaan after its most recent re-paving. There's no accident history there, and town officials will leave off the double-yellow line striping it, as nearly all residents say they

Saying the number two complaint from homeowners with respect to road projects—after “When will you get to this road?”—is that people don’t want road striping painted back on a newly paved street, town officials are opting to forego putting a double yellow line back on Thayer Pond Road. On a recommendation the assistant director of [...]

Woman Heads to Emergency Room after Ponus Ridge Dog Bites Her Arm

By Michael Dinan

A boxer mix is under quarantine through Tuesday after biting a woman last week while she tried to change bed sheets in a Ponus Ridge home, officials say. It happened around 4 p.m. on Dec. 16, according to Animal Control Office Maryann Kleinschmitt, and the bite was bad enough to send the woman to the [...]
