Salar wants to do it the home of Google billionaire Omid Kordestani and his wife. I don't know them. Omid was hire #12, and worked at Google until 5 years ago as head of business. He's Larry close friend and just rejoined the company.

He has already invited Taryn. He invited Rem Koolhaas, who, unfortunately, is in Moscow December 7th, meeting with Putin. We can't figure out how to make that one work.

So the plan now is includes her giving a lecture, but being who she is, and depending on her sense of the group, it will morph into something more interesting, probably much more interesting. She's asked me to write a profile on each of the attendees so she can be prepared. I can send her articles about Tony; you, however, are far more mysterious and intriguing. Is there any press on you I can forward?
