Honestly I am not sure...I think he would ultimately like someone of Asian culture...but it is not always easy to find! I think the best thing to do would be to ask Jeffrey outright...how old do you put this person? or have you not met her...?

Question? I met someone a week back and I forgot to ask you, I met someone interested in the travel role, When I spoke to Jeffrey he expressed interest in someone that has an Asian cultural "attitude", that would be helpful, etc, however, We met a candidate that we met had a lot of flexibility, I went over the firm ,Jeffery etc, and she asked me about the role again a few times with interest, she does not come from that cultural background, but she is an EA, and I believe her attitude is in the right place, Do you think Jeffrey would entertain someone like that or do they need that international background for the role, I guessing he just wants flexibility in attitude, so that is why I'm asking, if so, I can send her resume over, She brings a Habibe type of flexibility, and has the ability to travel, Thought I would ask,
