american airlines for sure! They are much better these days at locating luggage...did your mom save the receipts for the tags the airline put on her luggage? Those are extremely important and the way they will locate her bags. She(or you) need to give American Airlines those luggage receipt numbers...they will find them... :)

Thanks, you'e so sweet :)

[REDACTED], I called my mom last night once again as soon as she landed. She said the flight change was made upon the problem with delayed arrival of her plane from JFK to London and therefore her luggage has not arrived with her. They lost it and now she is very disappointed because all her clothes and expensive things and presents were in the luggage. She will try figure it out today if they don't find the luggage who do you think I should speak to about the issue ? Priceline or American Airlines ?
