Private Cuban Art Collection To Debut at Carriage Barn

By Michael Dinan

Steve Certilman (L) with

Next week, the Carriage Barn Arts Center is launching an exhibition that will put on display for the public, for the first time, the Cuban artwork that Greenwich residents Steve and Terri Certilman—both attorneys—have been collecting for decades. "Absolut Kuba" opens April 24 and will be followed on May 17 by "A Night in Havana," [...]

Police Commission Wants Caffeine &

Carburetors Town-Run

By Michael Dinan

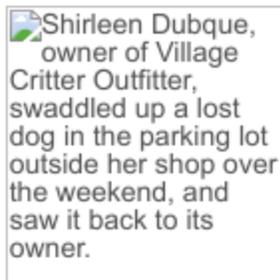

The grassroots Caffeine & Carburetors gathering of classic car enthusiasts in New Canaan has grown so popular that it should be viewed as a town-run event with more formal planning and execution, officials said Wednesday. About 700 cars and 4,000-plus people—automobile owners and spectators—came to the 2014 debut of Caffeine & Carburetors two Sundays ago, [...]

Biz on Biz: Swirl on Village Critter Outfitter

By Michael Dinan

In this, our "Biz on Biz" feature, we ask an owner or employee at one New Canaan business to tell us about a favorite thing at another business: an item, a quality, a service, anything. So when Sonny Yi, on-site owner of the popular FroYo purveyor Swirl, told us that he loves the way fellow [...]

Spencer's Run Saplings Protected from Leg-Lifting Dogs

By Michael Dinan

 This black Labrador retriever no longer can access the maple sapling inside the gate at Spencer's Run dog park in Waveny.

Town officials have taken steps to protect a pair of young—and in being young, vulnerable—maple saplings in Spencer's Run from a most insidious threat: dog urine. Canines lifting their legs against the young trees in the Waveny dog park has become enough of a concern that the town is fencing the trees in (and man's [...])
