I wish it wasn't an hour away, but it would be fun...we are spending the night at dad's which makes it even farther for us really...I think if this were in Plano I would be all over it. I'm a stick in the mud when you have to drive too far these days! We will have a big night friday and I think, will want to sleep in on Sat. (the race starts at 9am and they go in 5 minute waves...)

It's about an hour drive on Saturday the 14th but it could be really fun for the kiddos. Not competitive and my whole company is going to participate and maybe contribute to the Kidd Kraddick foundation (sooo sad!!!).

I think our babes would laugh themselves silly being all blasted with color, fun pics.

Want to?
