

From: Thomas Costello <[REDACTED]>
To: Lesley Groff <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: Flowers
Date: Mon, 17 Jun 2013 18:28:32 +0000

Hello Lesley,

You can just have the flowers. You are a great customer and I know there is a larger project coming in the future at the new house so i am not worried about. it. Enjoy them.

Tom

On Mon, Jun 17, 2013 at 7:39 AM, Lesley Groff <[REDACTED]> wrote:
Morning Tom. Hope you had a tremendous Father's Day!!

I understand why you would just assume we wanted the flowers again. We have had them many years in the past. I hate for your men to spend any more time trying to take the flowers out ...and like you said it would be a complete shame to have them only die after removal. How much are they?

We absolutely want you to bid on the landscaping for the new house. No worries there. It is a flat acre so more to lawn to mow as well

Thanks, Lesley

Sent from my iPhone

On Jun 15, 2013, at 9:13 PM, Thomas Costello <[REDACTED]> wrote:

> Hello Lesley,

>

> Sorry for the miscommunication about the flowers. We have just done them every year in the past and just put them in. I will see if I can take them back out on monday. If I cant you can just have them. Its not worth killing them to take them back if they do not come out. As for the new house. I would love to bid on the landscaping install as well as any mason work that you have there if at all possible. Please let me know.

>

> Tom

> --

> Thomas J. Costello Landscaping LLC

> P.O. Box 17304

> Stamford, CT 06907

> [REDACTED]

>

--
Thomas J. Costello Landscaping LLC
P.O. Box 17304
Stamford, CT 06907
[REDACTED]