It could be when we authorized the computer for Ike's itunes. Let me look on my laptop tonight and see if I can find anything to help explain

Hi Adam.... Hope all is well...!

My contacts at home are no longer pulling from the iCloud...my IT guy is asking if possibly when you converted our PC stuff over to the new computer something may have occurred...

Below is from my IT guy:

"if your husband uses his computer to connect to a private network for his job and has an it guy that set that up at home also could be an issue"

...but I don't know that Ike is set up to a private network??

Anyway, my contacts are not working properly any more and we are trying to figure out what may have happened...my contacts still work like normal from the iCloud on my iPhone, my computer at my office and my computer at my bosses home...

If you have any thoughts, would be great to know!

Thanks, [REDACTED]
