>>> Thanks for this Scott. I actually did some looking yesterday and like you said there will be another way I can keep a to do list , just need to find it .. Which I don't mind .. I like a lot of the new changes. However, it is imperative that I have reminders. I remember being scared about this when I did the big switch to apple and we found a solution. We will find another. But in the meantime Please! Do look for something for me and I will look too. The calendar keeps trying to pute back on "my Mac" and it is doubling things and then I delete something and I delete the version from the web and then I know it will be gone from my computer at 71st.

>>> This is a common headache Of the lion upgrade we will delete the Mac ones and just keep I cloud

>>> Bottom line I need a TO DO list that will alert me and be able to see at both computers. :) we will find a solution. See you Tuesday. But I'm thinking I come at 1:00 maybe :)
