ah, I always forward our phone line to my cell when I am not in the office...I leave anywhere between 4-5:00 to catch the subway to the train...sounds like I was commuting yesterday so your call was missed. We don't really have anyone else in the office to accept phone calls accept for me anymore...so there is a small window of time when calls will not be answered. Believe me, I try to do the best that I can...but even going to the bathroom can be tricky! and of course the inevitable happens, its the small window that a call comes in!

I apologize, but it did not even register that I missed a call yesterday...I always look at my phone the minute I get to Grand Central...
