Hey...yeah. That's why I suggested I send you the file. And it doesn't have to be overnight (the most expensive). In fact, we could go with the least expensive. The file is very large however so I would have to send it to you through yousendit.com
Let's discuss this tomorrow morn? (at work now and hustling on a deadline).

Hey Jessica...I went to this web site...what service will you use? I am not really sure how i am to pay for you with a CC?? It looks like you need to go in and input some data...then at the end of your order you put in the CC#? I'm not sure...

Hope you've been great. I have a question for you....I am supposed to be transcribing that interview for JE and need to pay for the service.
JE said you guys would cover it but I am not sure the best way to go about this.
This is the place: <http://castingwords.com/>

I don't think it's a total rush since I won't be able to get to it until around the 26th so we def don't need the fastest turn around. I could send you the file too....to send to them.

Though maybe I should give them my credit card and have you reimburse (not totally the preferred but definitely an alternative).

Anyway, let me now what works best and how to move forward and we'll get a start on this long overdue project.

Talk to you soon and sending lovely weekend wishes...

Jess
