BBPW Presents What Next? A Discussion on Career Transitions and the Possibility of Grad School

Feeling like you've hit a plateau at your current job but not sure what to do next? Ready for a new challenge? Considering graduate school but not really sure what program would be right for you?

Join BBPW in association with Kaplan Test Prep on Thursday, April 28th, 6:00-8:30pm, at the Kaplan Center in Midtown for some wine and cheese and a discussion on effective ways to approach career transition.

Lee Weiss, Assistant Director of GRE Programs at Kaplan, will discuss the essential tools and strategies needed for the job searching process and things to focus on when considering a move to a new industry or field. He will also speak about the pros and cons on making the decision to return to school and how to stand out as an applicant for any type of grad program or even for a position at a new company.

As an added bonus Kaplan will be raffling off one FREE GRE Advantage Anywhere course (a $699 retail value).

Speaker Bio: LEE WEISS Director of Pre-Graduate Programs

Expert on: GRE, graduate school admissions issues and trends Lee Weiss is director of pre-graduate programs for Kaplan Test Prep, managing the company's GRE business, including marketing, program development and delivery. He began his Kaplan career as an instructor, teaching the GRE, GMAT, SAT, ACT and PSAT.
