on another note...I do have my old computer in my garage...think that is worth looking at? It is a CPU unit type computer...

I think it was pre-Scott/pre-Mac. Maybe Murph? (Rich & Bella were on HBRK email addresses, I know.)

If it wasn't Hotmail or Yahoo or something like that that would have your old emails sitting on a server somewhere, then they're gone.

I'm assuming you've opened the Archive > All Mail folder in Mail.app and scrolled all the way back to its oldest message to confirm nothing that far back was ported over?

The only remnants of computers that far back were the old hard drives Darren had me review & erase over a year ago (none of them had any of your info).

I could reach out to Murph and see if he thinks your old data would be backed up anywhere but that's the longest of long shots.

ah...ummm...hmmm...I am sure it was an old email address...but I don't remember it...what were we using then? Gosh, I don't even think we had switched over to Mac then? When did Scott come around? that is when we switched over...maybe I could ask Rich...?

What were you using for email at that time (what program / what email address)?

Thank you,

Hi there. I have actually already looked as he asked me last Friday. I have nothing. My emails don't go back that far. Would you like me to ask James if he can retrieve older emails?
