Hi Jeffrey

Here are two new renderings Black and White for your review and comments

After the front page

The first images is a sketch up a software that we use to scale the volumes of the house with reference to the contours

The second is an aerial black and white

The third is the same but with a green color (wash) to help differentiate the house from the landscape

The fourth is a black and white perspective rendering with a view that is looking from the beach

The fifth is the same drawings that we sent you before and that we are using to developed the renderings (or your reference only)

Still awaiting for any of your comments or concerns

Regards
