Grace Farms and its neighbors are negotiating a proposed "buffer zone" between their properties, according to correspondence between the parties involved and town officials—a new development that could address some of the residents' longstanding concerns about privacy, lighting, noise and safety. According to a summary of a meeting last week between

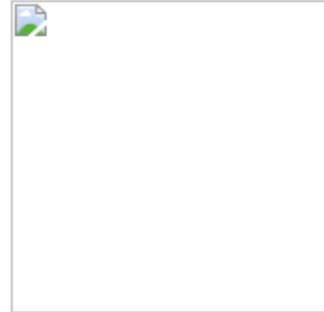

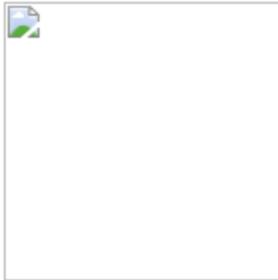

Grace Farms and some [...]

New Construction Planned for Valley Road

By Michael Dinan

Town officials last week issued a permit to build a new, 7,600-square-foot home on Valley Road where an 1846-built antique about one-third that size stands. The 2-acre property at 867 Valley Road was purchased last June for $801,500, tax records show. Its new owner is a limited liability company whose principal is a Smith Ridge Road woman, [...]

Disorderly Charge for New Canaan Man after 9-1-1 Hang-up

By Michael Dinan

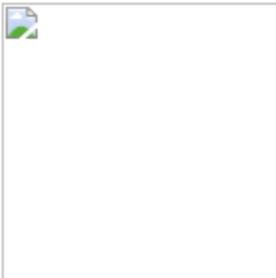

Police on Saturday night arrested a 56-year-old New Canaan man after investigating why someone at his home had phoned 9-1-1 and then hung up. At about 6:56 [REDACTED] on Feb. 18, officers got word of the call, made from a residence on Oak Street, according to a police report. Police contacted the residents there and, [...]
