Hi Leslie,

The [REDACTED] is no longer our number—they were forwarding calls for about six months but I do not know if it is able to be forwarded any longer. The cell number that you have for Richard is correct [REDACTED]. His direct office number is [REDACTED]. Other helpful numbers:

My direct line at the office is [REDACTED]. My cell if you ever need it is [REDACTED].

That should about cover it. Richard's line rings directly to Miriam's and my desk. My extension also rings to Miriam in the event that I am not in the office. I am best reached by text in case of emergency or when time is an issue.

Best
Clayton

Clayton, I have the below numbers for the office also, can you please let me know if they are correct:

[REDACTED] office
[REDACTED] Richard's cell

Hi [REDACTED],

I see that you have reached out to Richard and have been trying to reach out to me. You may be using my previous email address ([REDACTED]), which should be forwarding to me but clearly is not. The most recent email I have from you is from October 21. Richard has just spoken with Jeffrey and he is seeing him tomorrow at 5pm. He already had plans for dinner but is seeing Jeffrey before his existing commitment.

Please note that although the CUMC email is supposed to be forwarding there seems to be an issue currently, which I will look into. But you can reach me at [REDACTED] and you may wish to copy Miriam at [REDACTED] as I am currently dealing with some [REDACTED] and not always here—and of course you can reach us at the number in my email signature when there is a need to get a quick response. I am sorry for any delays or problems this may have caused you this week.

Best,
Clayton

Hello Richard and hope you are well. Following up to see if you might be available today or tomorrow in NY to come see Jeffrey at his home for a visit. (I had sent a couple of emails to Clayton on Tuesday of this week but did not hear back. Thinking he may not be with you? )

Thank you,
