Hey Bossman,

Attached is the quote from Mr. Segal for the "GE Mac5500" EKG machine $4,500.00.

Mr. Segal confirmed that it's easy use with WIFI & Wireless capability.

So per our conversation, here is the information about the Philips TC30 with wireless:

https://www.davismedical.com/Products/Philips-PageWriter-TC30-Cardiograph__PHN-EKG-860306-spc-A02.aspx

Amazing little machine. BRAND NEW this machine is about $4500 (with wireless) and will last you 10-15 years and 100,000 EKGs. The TC30s new are about as expensive as a MAC5500 USED, and you get much more bang for your buck with the TC30 hands down for a number of reasons: it's extremely popular, Philips has great support, wide availability, popularity, and we sell these products all the time and can answer any questions about them. With it's easy 1 – 2 – 3 operation, anyone can work this machine. If you'd like me to send you an official quote, please let me know. I would need you company name, phone number, and address in order to do so.

Hello Ann!

I have one refurbished GE MAC5500 in the back in pretty good shape for $4550. The new GE MAC5500 base models sell for $11950. If you'd like me to send you an official quote on either, or both, please let me know. I would name your name, company name, phone number, and address in order to do so.
