Hi Bob...I just sent you the final plans (I hope they are,...that is what the heading says from John Heyrich)...we need to find exactly where the main Pump is located in the front or side yard?...Our landscaper says he knows of a man hole in the flower bed but it is only a pipe that leads to the street...no pump...He does think there might be another man hole with a green lid..? is that the pump? Can you have a look at the plans and tell me which PDF shows the pump? We can not find it...I really hate to have to ruin the entire bed and would rather dig in the proper place.

The sound we heard is because the 'float is stuck'...

I can send you a video of the sound and where it was coming from...

Can you help? Lesley
