OK Feb 22-23 is in my calendar.

Two one-liners:

1. Mapping the connectome to understand brain function and help you build artificial brains.
2. Modeling intertemporal choice as a game between multiple selves, and its relation to self-deception.

█ like to nominate another participant: Drazen Prelec from the Sloan School.
<http://economics.mit.edu/faculty/dprelec>
He works on models of self-signaling and self-deception. He and his wife are on sabbatical in London, but maybe they could fly over given enough notice.
