Heres one to watch. Many others already resolved with precedents set. Will make a list. John Doe alleges he was falsely accused by a male PhD student of sexual assault, and Virginia Tech denied him due process rights when it improperly suspended him.

The crazy idea that you in your words. Will DEMAND being allowed to keep your laptop. Is soooo nuts. Given your precarious position . The age discrimination is a problem for them. And now they are aware. . both good and bad. Good that it might give them pause. As no older person has been charged before. Or bad as they can just delay signing now for 21 days.

I was going to say that I thought the damage had already been done re the age discrimination thing because Justin talked to he about it and informed her of the law when he first spoke to her yesterday afternoon. Anyway we should have left that document till the morning when you had a chance to see it.

Let's see what happens. I have mixed feelings if I want it to succeed.

Ruling from over one year ago on violation of rights during investigation that also included recommendations for improving due process.

“failure to provide any form of confrontation of the accuser made the proceeding against John Doe fundamentally unfair,”

Dark Cloud over his head, and it won't go away. Will keep you updated on R.
Can you skype with Ed at 4 pm London time tomorrow? He is a bit stressed on NYU and needs some encouragement and boost of confidence: a pep talk, which you are so good at!

Hi. I think my press statement may almost be Jeffrey level smart. If they say nothing in response I win. And if they respond it will most likely be disparaging but will establish precedent that release of disparaging facts ok. :). You may be rubbing off?

Heard nothing back yet btw. Working on finalizing letter based on draft I sent.

My guess is that this is an MBZ very clever play
