As much as I hate Bannon and all that he stands for which is the polar opposite for what we stand for I think this was very cowardly of the New Yorker. Who does that? They must've known when they asked him that he would be a controversial person. Here I'm on Bannon's side. I can't believe I'm writing that sentence. Now I'm going to read the article and I'll have a more informed opinion. This is just off the top of my head. Not that you can believe everything you read in the New York Times. What are your thoughts and what did Bannon think of all of this?

I will transmit the views of others with more experience than me. in your current arena. 1. a concise vision for what comes after the burning down. 2. be seen to pose more complicated questions than often trying to give answers. 3. I would think about your brand. . represent that American dharma is the first in a series. . 4. stifling open debate comes not from hate but from fear. the left needs not to be afraid to look in the mirror .
