I have just ordered some synthetic ultramarine (lazurite) pigment, so that we can experiment. I guess the main question would be what to mix it with, right? It says that Klein put dry pigment in crystal-clear synthetic resin and compatible solvents (ether and petroleum). Do you know if those are easy to find at the art supply shops? Or shall I try to find online?... I just really know nothing about the mixing process, does this sound right to you?
Also, how about gold leaf, so you know where to find it?
